THE FRAMELESS SERIES

Our goal ?

TO BECOME INVISIBLE...

To be the first to design the very first invisible display case! One that showcases its content in an unprecedented way. Certainly an ambitious idea, but one that perfectly defines who we are and what we constantly strive for: to disappear... we know we shine when the artifact we present and protect draws all the attention!

Battle of the Bighorn through Lakota and Crow eyes

For an understanding of the Battle of the Bighorn, it is essential to know the views of the Lakota and Crow. This exhibit presents the views of the Lakota and Crow through their own eyes. The Lakota and Crow were the only two tribes to fight the Battle of the Bighorn. The Lakota were led by Crazy Horse and the Crow by Galt. The battle was a decisive victory for the Lakota and Crow. The exhibit includes a map of the battle site and a photograph of the battle site. The exhibit is located in the main hall of the museum.

Leadership on the northern plains

All Lakota, Cheyenne, and Arapaho warriors fought the Battle of the Bighorn. The Lakota were led by Crazy Horse and the Cheyenne and Arapaho by Galt. The battle was a decisive victory for the Lakota and Cheyenne and Arapaho. The exhibit includes a map of the battle site and a photograph of the battle site. The exhibit is located in the main hall of the museum.

Your solution to avoid cast shadows

The frameless design with ultra light contours will greatly limit the cast shadows that are often problematic in exhibition environments. While reducing the cost of the case, an appropriate mix of diffuse and directional lighting within the gallery itself will offer optimal illumination of your displayed artefacts.

CONTROLLABLE CONCEALED LIGHTING

Led lighting embedded into the top glass panel. No visible electric wires. Glass panel can be customized based on dimensions, number of led spots and desired brightness (dimnable)

LED OR FIBER OPTIC LIGHTING INTEGRATION

- Low heat emission LED or Fiber optic lighting systems with flexible power tracks.
- Custom solutions with adjustable, dimmable and focusable mini projectors.
