Wall Mounted Case with Hinged Opening

Available in multiple depths, heights and lengths, these cases can be designed as single units or in multiple sections to create long display walls.

Their back walls can be used to pin and hang objects. They are often removable and can be repainted for future exhibitions. Museums will often add graphics to the back wall to enhance the design and present complementary information to the visitors.

Regardless of its dimensions, this beautiful design offers several display possibilities with shelving and lighting options. They could also integrate various sensors and alarm systems.

Customized plinths and risers, or even exhibition drawers, can be a great addition to increase versatility with this model.
